A PHOTO of the Edmonton Fire Brigade Band was taken by C. W. Mathers before the band started for Fort Saskatchewan on Friday morning.

GEO. S. WILKINS, license commissioner, arrived from Red Deer on Thursday's train to attend the meeting of the commissioners held on Friday afternoon.

As to-day is a holiday the BULLETIN was printed on Saturday night, for distribution this morning, so as to give the poor printers a chance to see the sports.

FUR SALES: To Jas. Walsh—E. Laboucan of Battle river, $52; P. Luted, lake Athabasca, $176.35; W. C. Tims, lake St. Ann, $350; Pierre Gray, $165.

PETER LUTED brought from Fort Chipevyan a very fine head of a wood buffalo. The hair, or fur, or horn, is very black and the bones, hide and hoofs, are complete.

W. C. Tims, trader, of lake St. Ann, brought in a lot of fur last week, which was sold to Jas. Walsh. Mr. Tims has sold out his trading post and stock to Pierre Gray.

JAS. A. YOUNG, school teacher on Muddy Hills reserve at Bear's Hill, arrived on Thursday's train to attend the teacher's institute held here on Friday and Saturday.

HAYTER REED, Indian Commissioner, of Ottawa, was married recently to Mrs. Grosvenor P. Lowrey, of New York, daughter of the late Judge Armour, of Cobourg, Ont.

J. WALTER, of the upper ferry, is fitting up his present portable engine to saw lumber with which to erect a large saw mill which will be run by the old engine of the Hudson's Bay Company's flour mill, purchased recently by him.

At the meeting of the license commissioners for license district No. 8, held in Jas. McDonald's office, hotel licenses were granted Jas. Goodridge for the Jasper House, Edmonton, and Jos. Villette for the Mansion House Fort Saskatchewan.

Mrs. E. V. HARDISTY and Miss Birdie Young sailed for Scotland from Montreal on the Allan Steamer Parisian on June 22nd. Mrs. Hardisty will visit her son Percy who is attending school near Edinburgh, and will likely make a considerable stay in the Old Country.

The minister of interior has informed the board of trade in reply to a request made by the board, that the grounds around the new land office will be improved by clearing, levelling and the planting of trees and shrubs from the experimental farm.

The cargo of the steamer Northwest which has had such a tedious trip down the river from Edmonton, consisted of 200 tons of coal and 37 barrels lager beer for Battleford; 5,500 feet lumber, 24,000 shingles, 3,000 bushels oats for Pitt, and ten tons sundries for points along the river. The experience of this trip will scarcely encourage a repetition of the experiment.

J. T. TURNBULL, secretary of the wool grower's association, has received several letters in reply to the advertisements and enquiries of the association. Wm. Zinger, who owns a woollen mill at Teeswater, Ont., may be induced to remove his mill to Edmonton, and another mill owner in Ontario also expresses his willingness to change his location for a consideration. As to trading woollen goods for wool the Midnapore woollen mills offer 11½¢ a pound for unwashed wool, in trade, the wool to be of a quality containing 65 pounds of clean wool to every 100 pounds of unwashed. Blankets are traded at $5 to $8 a pair. Yarn at 70¢ for 4 barks of 20 yards in each bark either 2 or 3 ply.

Now that the fact that timothy will grow well and profitably in the Edmonton district, the question is often asked will not clover do well also? In reply to that question it may be mentioned that in '88 or '89 J. Knowles, now of Mount Pleasant, but then of Fraser avenue, sowed white clover in his garden which grew every year without further seedling while he remained in occupation of the place. Mr. Knowles removed from Fraser avenue in the winter of 1891 and 1892, and the garden has been uncultivated since. The clover has continued growing ever since. In 1892 Fraser avenue was graded and now there are several bunches of white clover growing on the side of the grade close to the wheel track. These bunches are not only growing without cultivation or protection but must have been seeded with human assistance from the clover growing in the garden adjoining. This does not prove that clover will do well as a field crop, but it goes far enough in that direction to warrant a series of thorough experiments on the part of practical farmers.

Battleford Herald: Where poison was set out in the spring gophers are almost unknown and crops are unharmed. It is also very noticeable that in some unsettled places where they were numerous last year few are to be seen, they having died off from some natural cause just as they did a few years ago. On the roads leading to town they ran about in hundreds last year, but few are to be seen this summer. No one regrets their disappearance.

PROF. GOGGIN'S LECTURE.
Robertson hall was well filled on Friday evening to hear Prof. Goggin lecture on "Dr. Arnold, the model teacher." Mayor McCauley took the chair and introduced the lecturer, mentioning the pleasure with which he had listened to Prof. Goggin's lecture of last year and the profit he had derived from it and therefore the desire he had to hear him again, a desire which the large attendance proved was generally shared. He alluded pleasantly to Prof.
Goggin's remarks in Calgary regarding the location of a university for the territories and to the special interest which he had seemed to manifest in the schools taught by ladies.
A piano duet by Miss Goggin and Mr. Alex.
McCauley followed.

Prof. Goggin in his opening remarks alluded to the pleasant recollections he had of his former visit to Edmonton on account of his interest in the ladies alluded to by the fact that a very large proportion of the educational work under his supervision was in the hands of ladies. As to the location of the proposed territorial university, when in Calgary he had moved that the land grant be asked for a territorial and not an Alberta university. No doubt the people of Edmonton who had been able to secure a location of a land office would also be able to secure the location of the university.
His present business in Edmonton was to conduct the teachers' institute, and he had been frequently asked "What is a teachers institute and what are its purposes?" It was a gathering of teachers desirous of improving their methods of teaching by the helpful interchange of ideas and information.
Teachers might lose interest in their profession by being isolated. Bringing them together tended to awaken new interest as well as impart new ideas. He (the speaker) in passing from school to school inspecting learned from day to day how to attain the methods of the best teachers as well as to avoid the mistakes of the inefficient. This information thus collected was given to all the teachers meeting at the institutes.
The work of teaching in school was only supplementary to the teaching at home.
To have efficient schools parents must take an active interest in the work of the schools in directing the minds of the children when at home. In delivering addresses such as he gave last year and would give here tonight the object was to arouse the interest of the people in teaching work so that it might be directed along the right lines. Each year he proposed to take up a different phase of the question. Last year his lecture was on morals and manners in the schools and at home. Next year he would probably take up the duties of the citizen to the state, something that was not taught in the schools at all, and he believed yet should be taught, even though some of the present work should be dropped. His address, this evening would be a continuation along the same line of that of last year, taking Dr. Arnold, the great master of Rugby, his work and life as an inspiration and example. It would be impossible in the space available in this issue to give a fair synopsis even of the lecture dealing with the life, work and methods of Dr. Arnold.
It was so full of matter of interest that to publish facts and leave out any other part would be an injustice to the lecture and the lecturer. The idea of the lecture was to exalt good principles and sound understanding above mere knowledge however complete and accurate. The boy who grew to be a man surrounded by the teaching of sound principles and who was taught to think for himself could acquire mere knowledge by the expenditure of a little labor at any time of life, but the man who lacked moral principle or sound reasoning power could not acquire them in after life. He counseled teachers to look upon their pupils as individuals and not as a body, and to study each one as carefully as the child was expected to study its lesson. Also to strive for perfection but never consider it attained, and to keep up their own studies on the principle as expressed by Dr. Arnold, that it was better for the children in acquiring knowledge to drink from the running stream rather than from the stagnant pool. Trustees and parents were cautioned against employing teachers who did not stand high in morals and manners as well as teaching ability. He had heard of places where teachers were chosen because they were members of the Methodist or Presbyterian or Anglican churches, or because they were conservative or reform in politics or because they were or were not active temperance workers. If these were the tests the best results could not be expected. The example of the teacher and his or her contact with the pupils could not fail to teach those pupils either good or bad, in moral and manners whether there was the intention or not.
This feature of the case should be considered carefully by trustees and parents as well as the ability to teach the ordinary studies.
Teachers should remember this as well and should give their best attention to teaching while they were in the profession. To do the present study well was the best assurance that the coming duty could and would be done well. The teaching profession was often used as a stepping stone to some more profitable profession. This was very well, but the step should not be taken at the expense of the work done by the teacher.
Even if the salary was low, an agreement was entered into to do certain work for that salary and it should be done with all the mind and energy of the teacher.

A duet on the whistle and piano by J.
Flynn and Fred Ford was given and received a merited encore.

Rev. D. G. McQueen moved a vote of thanks to the lecturer in a few appropriate remarks. J. A. McDougall seconded.
Votes of thanks were also moved to the chairman and the musicians, and the proceedings closed by the singing of God save the Queen.

etary corporations in the United States.

HIS HEARTFELT THANKS.

Mr. N. Lepage of Fort Saskatchewan in a letter, not written by himself, which appeared in the last number of the Bulletin, is accusing the government at Regina of having neglected even to answer a certain petition of the settlers of township 55, range 22, west of 4. That petition was addressed to me as M. L. A., for St. Albert district and it was understood that I should give the petition due consideration when the district of St. Albert has enough money to justify me to recommend this expedient.
This I was and am still ready to do as soon as I am not committing an injustice to the east of the district. $500 have been spent there since last year and as there are lots of new settlers not having even an outlet from their homesteads in different parts of my district, I do not feel justified to recommend this expenditure just now. The author of the letter seems to be more in a hurry than the rest of the settlers of that locality, who understands that, with the relatively small amount at the disposal of the district, the member cannot satisfy all demands at once. Promises made will be kept in due time. But before accusing either His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor or any member of Executive Committee or even the member of the district, the writer should have had himself better posted as to the way the money is distributed in the Territories. I accept the responsibility.
Happily the writer never was, is not, nor never will be, the appointed agent of those settlers in this matter or any other.

ANTONIO PRINCE, M. L. A.,
For St. Albert.
Edmonton, June 29th, 1894.

EDITOR BULLETIN: Sir—I have just read Mr. A. G. Randall's communication in last issue in which he proposes to teach myself that there is no such place as North Edmonton in the Territories. Permit me to point out to Mr. Randall that there is such a place known as North Edmonton and is situated not a great distance from his own residence. It is true there was a place also known in the geography of the country as Fort Edmonton, a Hudson's Bay post, on the river bank which was never claimed as a part of the present town, which since its incorporation and the prospectus of a village being established on the south side, the old title of Fort Edmonton was rarely heard and North Edmonton was named by the majority as a substitute. Perhaps Mr.
Randall will say there is no north side of the river, which must be the case, as he represents. If there is South Edmonton there must surely be North Edmonton as well. In conclusion, Mr. Randall's views of the matter are somewhat muddled or else the geography from which he obtained his theory was meant for a rapid seller and not for education, hence the peculiarities of his letter.

BRITISH COLUMBIA FLOODS.

The following is the Winnipeg Commercial's account of the recent floods in British Columbia as given by its special correspondent on the ground:

There are three high tides on the Fraser river, British Columbia, every year, in March, April and June respectively, caused by snow on the mountains melting, and swelling the seasonable rise of the waters. In 1882, as well as the present year, there were no high tides in March or April, and on account of unusually cold weather, snow did not melt until May 22nd, when the weather became suddenly hot, and mountain rivulets for a hundred miles were changed into roaring torrents, three high tides as it were being thrown into one.

The Fraser river farmers for the past twelve years, since the great floods of 1882, have been rapidly settling on the bottom lands close to the river and building dykes to protect them from the high waters. The closer to the river they get the more productive was the soil, accounting for the large number of farmers in a comparatively thinly settled country who have been ruined by the present floods. Now that the worst is over a more accurate account can be given of the actual damage done. Your correspondent has been through the entire flooded district, collecting statistics from a number of old pioneers, and is able to present as accurate an account as can possibly be given as to the damage done.

The direct loss to the Canadian Pacific, according to the railroad officials, will not be over half a million dollars, but of course a much heavier loss will be sustained through stoppage of traffic and hotel expenses for all delayed passengers, etc. On the Thompson, Bow, White, Spillamachine and Smilkameen the loss in British Columbia territory is estimated at $150,000. Of the Fraser a more detailed account can be given.

Commencing on the south side near the salt water is a settlement called Ladners, 220 acres in extent. Here the land is comparatively high, and the loss to crops did not amount to more than $5,000. Surrey municipality, ten miles square, 4,000 settlers, comes next. Loss to crops in Surrey is not more than $6,000. Langley, the next municipality, is ten miles square, with 3,500 settlers; loss, bridges, $5,000; crops, $20,000; chattels, real estate, cattle, etc., $20,000—total, $50,000. Matsqui is ten miles square, with 600 settlers; nearly all the settled section was inundated through the dykes giving away; loss, crops, $20,000; fences, bridges, chattels, $25,000; stock, $8,000—total, $53,000. Sumas, twelve miles by seven, 500 settlers. All overflowed. Cattle were saved by being driven to the mountain side, where the settlers bivouaced for one week. Loss from crops, $50,000; bridges, fences, etc., $5,000; cattle and household effects, $50,000; total, $105,000. Chilliwack, the district most badly flooded, prides itself in a town of about 4,000 inhabitants, and was the first place settled on the Fraser valley. It is the richest section in British Columbia, being very highly cultivated. The crops and fruit farms of Chilliwack were an entire loss. To illustrate the height of the water at its highest point in Chilliwack it is sufficient to put on record that the steamer Courser sailed across lots to the Harrison hotel stables, took on 100 head of cattle and regained the main channel again by steaming down front street and out of the Slue. A conservative estimate of the damage to crops and fruits in Chilliwack is said to be $500,000; household effects, bridges, cattle, etc., $100,000. Total, $600,000. On the north side of the river the first municipality is Richmond. High land, loss not more than $5,000. Next comes the Delta and South Vancouver. Total loss, $20,000. Burnaby, total loss, $5,000. Coquitlam, nine miles square, settled by 50 people. Total loss to fences, bridges, etc., $25,000. Maple Ridge, 13 miles square, inhabited by 1,200 people, five miles from the Fraser, near Lillooette river. Latter river was backed up by the Fraser and did $75,000 worth of damage. Mission, nine miles square, settled by 1,000 people. The whole front facing the water was inundated, and $100,000 worth of damage done. Dewdney, eight miles square, settled by 1,000 people, loss $50,000. Nicoman, not a soul left in the settlement; total loss estimated at $100,000. Twelve miles between Nicoman and Yale is thinly settled, but the loss in this section is not less than $50,000. In Yale district, including Katz Landing, the loss has been fully $50,000. These figures aggregate about $2,000,000, which is a very conservative estimate of the damage done by the floods.

NEW NORTH-WEST BILL.

Free Press, Ottawa despatch: Daily introduced a bill in lieu of bill No. 133 on the order paper to amend acts respecting the North-West Territories which was withdrawn. He explained wherein the new bill differed from the old one. Clause 12 was struck out as conflicting with clause 14. The new bill gives the North-West assembly power to incorporate tramway or street railway companies. The sixteenth clause of the act is repealed. It has given power to the Lieutenant-Governor to pass ordinances in respect to the administration of justice. There was no necessity for the clause. Judges from whose decision an appeal is taken shall not sit in term to hear the appeal. At present the Lieutenant-Governor fixes the fees of sheriffs. This bill gives the power to the assembly. No person shall be appointed a police magistrate unless he has resided in Canada for three years. At present the right to challenge jurors peremptorily was confined to cases of treason or offences punishable with more than five years imprisonment. This bill extends this right to cover all cases. The question has been raised as to the jurisdiction of the North-West courts as to alimony. This bill settles the doubt. At present the closing up of a road was required to be done by the assembly. The new bill enabled the Lieutenant-Governor, with the assent of the Governor-general-in-council, to do it.

The Nor'-Wester, dealing editorially with the question of C.P.R. rates, says: "To be effectual in forcing the company to a consideration of our grievances it would be necessary to keep up an agitation that would seriously affect the market value of its securities. There is no way of reaching the company's conscience except by touching its pocket. It has been said that an agitation would be injurious to the country itself. This has been put forward as a plea intended for the protection of the company, notably by the Winnipeg Tribune, which is scarcely less subject to the control of the C.P.R. than the Free Press itself. It is a plea with which we have no sympathy. The rebellion of 1837 was for the time injurious to the material interests of Canada, but it ended in winning for us responsible government. The North recognized that in going to war with the South the interests of the country would suffer, but it did not hesitate on that account; it went into the fight to preserve the union, which it did and incidentally abolished slavery. The business of the country no doubt suffered by the revolution of 1868, but that did not save James or keep out William. We have every justification to agitate against the wrong that is being imposed upon us. Monopolies are hateful and deserve to be broken whenever it is possible. But to agitate until the heart of the C.P.R. company was moved would probably mean actual violence, for which the present temper of the people is not prepared. We can only continue to protest, and wait for events.
